ROOT CHOSEN HEAD OF

Meeting Will Revise Organic Law of State for Approval of the Voters.

ALBANY, N. V., April 6 .- Elthu Root ormer United States senator from New York, was today elected president of vention, 129 to 32, over Morgan J O'Brien of New York. Mr. O'Brien was supported by the democratic members of the convention, although he was not cominated formally for the position. The convention which met today the first gathering called to revise the organic law of the state that has met in twenty-one years. Its work will be to mold a constitution which, subject to approval by the voters at the polls, probably will stand for another gen-

Revision of the judiciary system of the state is one of the chief subjects that will be considered. Conservation of natural resources and revision of dection and taxation methods also will eceive attentio cretary of State Francis M. Hugo

Mr. Root's Address.

A plea for conservation in changing in stitutions of long standing marked the adlress of Mr. Root in accepting the presiduty before us is to scrutinize attentively the framework of the state government in order to ascertain in what respect, if any, the established institutions are insufficient or ill-adapted to accomplish the ends of Great changes have come in the in-lustrial and social life of the state since the last convention. To attain the ends which every one agrees ought the ends which every one agrees ought to be obtained it appears necessary that government shall interfere to a much greater extent than in former times with the complicated and interdependent life of the people. The business which government is required to undertake has vastly increased both in magnitude and variety, and there is a widespread feeling that in some respects the business of the government has outgrown the organization of government.

Responsibility and Power Defined. "The fundamental principle to be ap plied I take to be that repsonsibility and power shall always go together Responsibility without power can never e justly enforced, and power without responsibility can never be duly con rolled. Every public officer and agent should have clear and definite authority to do the acts required of him and should have some one over him with authority to hold him to responsi-bility, from the lowest employe to the highest elected officer whom the people themselves hold to responsibility at the

"In all our labors let us keep in mind that it is our duty, so far as our powers go, to preserve as well as to improve. While we seek to adapt the machinery of government to changing conditions we are still to preserve the great body and rights and liberties which have grown through many centuries of political and judicial developments, and under which we have so long been blessed by peace, order, justice and individual liberty and opportunity.
